ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A displaying and inputting apparatus includes a touch panel display, a layout information memory which stores a plurality of layout information which sets a layout of a plurality of functions displayed on the touch panel display, a selector which selects one layout information from the plurality of layout information, and a control unit which displays a function on a touch panel display based on the layout information selected by the selector.